

A photograph of the Samuel Beckett Bridge in Dublin, Ireland, at sunset. The bridge's distinctive white, curved pylon and stay cables are silhouetted against a bright orange and yellow sky. The bridge spans the River Liffey, with modern city buildings and their lights visible in the background. The water in the foreground reflects the bridge and the city lights.

Skal du med til Dublin?

Geografiolympiaden 2024

Prøv kræfter med din geografiske viden

Kontakt straks en af skolens geografilærere

